

WiWö - The Duke from Hohenlehen

Over 100 WiWö witnessed a drama on Sunday night: The five elements Water, Fire, Air, Earth and Wood stopped to work for the old rich Duke from Hohenlehen. Why did it happen? The Air told them what was happening 'over the years the Duke from Hohenlehen made the elements slave away'. For example the Air became dirty, the Water was wasted and the Wood was cut down. The elements were sick of this treatment and put a magic spell on the Duke. The spell caused the elements to stop to work for the Duke. The elements felt sorry for the Duke and gave him the chance to stop the magic spell: If 100 WiWö can teach the Duke how to use the Elements properly the spell will be cancelled. Luckily 100 WiWö came to Hohenlehen this week and started to teach the Duke how to use the elements correctly. Now we will see how this story will end....

GuSp - Flood Down Under

The unpredictable weather gods sent heavy rain which flooded the 'Central Graveyard' (or did someone not finish their food). Some amazing scenes unfolded: corpses floating in the floods, excited Waidhofener kids that were trying to save their last pants. We asked the people of Yoland to give charity to the victims of the flood (dry socks, candies...). Joschi, Ewe and Sandy are still collecting.

Back from the Adventure

Tired but happy the last group came back from their hike. With sore feet the hikers made their last steps on the path. The hikers could choice between 16 different routes. This year there were not many injuries. We all thank the Hike Team for preparing the beautiful routes and explaining the rules.

7 in 1 Strike

The organized crime gangs did not stop at the camp gates in the Down Under. The sneaky gangs used the hours during the big thunder storm to steal 7 beautiful flags from the Down Under flag poles. The detectives suspect that the criminals are art specialists because they left one unimportant poor quality flag from R.Itschy behind. Thanks to the undercover police Fredricka, Stefanie, Domina, Maxima and Kolofrau the flags were recovered without any blood lost.

Fleiß-Preis System

Also during the second week the Fleiß-Preis system was very popular amongst the scouts. Young and older ones were working voluntarily to make the camp function properly. Since Sunday also the Wichtel und Wölflinge have joined the Fleiß-Preis system and have invested a lot of energy. The Fleiß-Preis team and the camp chiefs say many thanks for your support. The camp wouldn't have functioned without your help. Besides the fact that the Wichtel und Wölflinge were joining in, the system was changed slightly: Every day there was a special neckerchief given to the person who has collected most points. The necky was handed out on each day. At the end of the camp a neckerchief will stay with the winner of the Fleiß-Preis system of the different age groups. The "6 little Spatzen" who have worked hardest as a group were honoured with the Fleiß-Preis flag during the closing ceremony.

Hey mister postman

What have Barack Obama and Felix the postman of Yoland '09 in common? They both celebrate their birthdays at the same day - on the 4th of August. On top of that there are even more things that the both have in common. Barack Obama is travelling around the world to make it a bit better and Felix was constantly touring from tent to tent to deliver mail that was sent. Lots of mail, postcards, even verbal notes and one or the other love letter were delivered through him during the last days. A few times a day the mailbox was emptied and the mail was delivered by Felix on his post scooter. Often Felix kept himself busy because he received several messages for himself.

When the nights comes to town ...

Another exhausting day full of action on the camp has come to an end. The children are already in bed and are (hopefully) dreaming well. This is the time were also the leaders, the camp staff and the Rover and Ranger had the time to cool down and to frequent the gastro service offered to them. Leaders were telling stories of their children and had a lookout to the program of the next day. Later during the night there were even the first plans made for Yoland 2019.... Christian "Öppi" Öpplinger and Katrin Mayer were taking care for the leaders and team members, and have served tea, coffee and sandwiches.
